

"Living in the Stone Age!"

(Curriculum Topic: History KS2 The Stone Age)

Ug, ug delves into the dangers of life in prehistoric times, where is your water, your food, your bed? Are you brave enough to try and survive in the wild? This exciting day takes children on a journey into the past as they use what they have available to create their shelter, think about the trials of finding food and realise how stone age life really was about survival of the fittest.

During the day children will:

- Try and build their own shelter to protect them from the elements
- Discover what they can eat around school and look at ways of feeding themselves
- Build a fire and try and light it! (An impossible task!)
- Try and steal a neighbouring tribe's all important fire

At the end of the day children will:

- Have discovered about how Stone age peoples lived
- Understand the importance of fire and why it changed mankind
- Have a deeper understanding of survival and what it entails
- Developed skills and teamwork throughout the day

Grow will supply all materials. Please inform us of your school ground facilities when booking this day.

Fee £220

(This topic is also offered in more detail as a term long project
Please contact us for more details and reduced rates)